Subject: Building Update - April 2, 2009

The Department of General Services continues to work on the 8th and 9th floors and the stairwell of the 450 N Street headquarters building following the water event of March 22, 2009, when 5,000 to 8,000 gallons of water flooded the stairwell and areas close to the stairwell of the floors from the 9th to the first. The last report received from DGS indicates work on the 8th and 9th floors should be completed by mid-week next week. Our consultant, Hygiene Tech, will continue to monitor their work and test the areas. Once written test results are received, they will be posted to the Building Assessment webpage.

All employees from the 8th and 9th floors are currently working in alternate locations. I know this is disruptive and inconvenient. Unfortunately, it is necessary during this most recent construction and clean-up. I truly appreciate your continued patience.
