INITIAL DISCUSSION PAPER

Regulation 1590, Newspapers and Periodicals

Issue

Whether the Board should amend Regulation 1590, Newspapers and Periodicals, to clarify the application of tax to subscriptions for newspapers that include or combine access to digital content.

Background

General

California imposes a sales tax measured by a retailer's gross receipts from the retail sale of tangible personal property inside this state, unless the sale is specifically exempt from taxation by statute. While the sales tax is imposed upon the retailer for the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail in California, the retailer may collect tax reimbursement from the customer if the contract of sale so provides. When sales tax does not apply, use tax is imposed upon the consumer, measured by the sales price of property purchased from a retailer for the storage, use, or other consumption of the property in California, unless specifically exempted or excluded from taxation by statute.

A sale includes any transfer of title or possession, in any manner or by any means whatsoever, of tangible personal property for a consideration. In general, gross receipts and sales price mean the total amount of the sale, including, among other things, any services that are a part of the sale. Tangible personal property is personal property that may be seen, weighed, measured, felt, or touched, or which is in any other manner perceptible to the senses. It is presumed that all gross receipts are subject to the tax until the contrary is established, and the burden of proving that a sale of tangible personal property is not a sale at retail is upon the person who makes the sale unless he or she accepts a resale certificate from the purchaser.

While tax is only imposed on transactions involving tangible personal property, neither sales tax nor use tax is imposed on charges entirely for the provision of services. Further, charges primarily for the provision of services that include the incidental transfer of tangible personal property are not subject to tax if the true object of the transaction is to obtain the provision of services. On the other hand, in transactions where services are inextricably intertwined as a part of the sale of tangible personal property, the entire charge is subject to tax because the true object of the transaction is to obtain the tangible personal property. For example, the true object in purchasing a sculpture is acquisition of the finished product, and thus the transaction is taxable without reduction for charges for any service (such as labor) required to make the product.

A "mixed transaction," in contrast, is a transaction in which the goods and services are distinct and each is a significant object of the transaction. If a transaction is a "mixed transaction," each element of the transaction is analyzed as a separate transaction, and tax is applied to the tangible personal property portion and the service portion is not taxed. In determining the relative values of the two portions, the Board has required that a "reasonable" and "fair" allocation of the value of the taxable and nontaxable portions be made.

Regulation 1590

Regulation 1590 provides guidance with respect to the application of tax to newspapers and periodicals, including those sold under a subscription. A newspaper is a publication that is printed and distributed periodically at daily, weekly, or other short intervals for the dissemination of news of a general character and of general interest. A periodical is a term used to describe those publications that appear at stated intervals, each issue of which contains news or information of general interest to the public, or to some particular organization or group of persons. In addition, each issue must bear a relationship to prior or subsequent issues in respect to continuity of literary character or similarity of subject matter, and there must be some connection between the different issues of the series in the nature of the articles appearing in them. Furthermore, each issue must be sufficiently similar in style and format to make it evident that it is one of a series. Since July 15, 1991, the sale of newspapers and periodicals are subject to tax, unless otherwise exempt.

Subscriptions

Regulation 1590, subdivision (b)(3) explains that effective November 1, 1992, tax does not apply to the sale or use of a periodical, including a newspaper, which appears at least four, but not more than 60 times each year, which is sold by subscription, and which is delivered by mail or common carrier. Subdivision (b) further provides that each delivery of a newspaper or periodical pursuant to a subscription sale is a separate sales transaction. When the sale is subject to tax, the retailer must report and pay the tax based upon the reporting period within which the delivery is made. The subscription price shall be prorated over the term of the subscription period.

Discussion

Historically, newspaper publishers have provided printed newspapers, which were physically distributed to their customers. For purposes of discussion, the term printed newspapers is used to describe those newspapers that appear more than 60 times a year and are, therefore, not exempt from tax under Regulation 1590, subdivision (b)(3). However, as technology and reader preferences have evolved, newspaper publishers are now offering other types of products, including access to digital online editions of the newspapers. Often, the access to the digital online editions include material that is not otherwise provided with a printed publication alone, such as expanded articles or additional photographs. The digital content may be offered as a stand-alone product or combined with a subscription for printed newspaper delivery. The price of a subscription that includes both print and digital content is often less than the price of the two items priced separately (if those options are offered). Furthermore, the subscription packages may vary in the content and frequency of delivery (for example, daily print only, daily print and daily access to digital content, or daily access to digital content only).

Mixed Newspaper Subscriptions

Digital content offered as a stand-alone product through remote telecommunications in which no tangible personal property is transferred to the customer is not subject to tax. However, when both printed newspapers and access to digital content is provided for a single price, the print and digital content are each a significant object of the transaction and have a significant value to the customer. Accordingly, the amount paid by the customer for the mixed subscription should be allocated between the value of the taxable and nontaxable portions in a fair and reasonable manner. Staff recognizes that in a mixed subscription, the relative value of each part of the transaction tends to vary from customer to customer and may also vary over time as subscriptions are renewed or new offers or promotions are made available. This variance makes it difficult to allocate the subscription cost between taxable and nontaxable amounts in a fair, reasonable, and consistent manner. There appears to be little consistency in how the industry prices mixed newspaper subscriptions.

INITIAL DISCUSSION PAPER

Staff's Proposed Amendments¹

For purposes of discussion, staff has drafted proposed amendments to Regulation 1590(a)(8) and (b)(3)(B), as shown in Exhibit 1, to provide a bright-line approach for determining taxable and nontaxable charges with respect to mixed newspaper subscriptions. Staff compared the sales prices of subscriptions for digital access only and digital access with daily print delivery of several major newspapers. Based on this initial research, staff believes that thirty-eight (38) percent is a fair and reasonable amount to allocate to the nontaxable portion of the sale of a mixed newspaper subscription. For example, if the price for a 7-day print subscription that includes full digital access is $10.00, thirty-eight (38) percent of that price, or $3.80, would be allocated to the nontaxable digital content and sixty-two (62) percent of that price, or $6.20, would be allocated to the taxable sale of the print subscription. Staff suggests these proposed amendments as a way to provide certainty and clarity to retailers and consumers of such products. Staff remains open to input from industry and other interested parties as to other alternatives to consider.

Prospective Basis for Amendments

Under Revenue and Taxation Code section 7051, “[t]he board may prescribe the extent to which any ruling or regulation shall be applied without retroactive effect.” In other words, when the Board wishes to limit the retroactive effect of a regulation, or amendments thereto, it is authorized to do so, and would accomplish it by taking affirmative action in the regulatory process by means of specifying an operative date for the amendments. Staff recommends that the amendments pertaining to the application of tax to mixed newspaper subscriptions have a prospective application so that retailers of such subscriptions are notified well in advance and can modify any record-keeping or billing systems as needed.

Other Proposed Amendments

Newspapers and Periodicals Distributed by 501(c)(3) and Other Nonprofit Organizations

During the process of drafting the proposed amendments discussed above, staff noted an inconsistency in Revenue and Taxation Code (RTC) section 6362.8 and Regulation 1590(b)(5)(B). For reference, RTC section 6362.8 provides, in part, that newspapers and periodicals distributed by 501(c)(3) and other nonprofit organizations are not subject to tax under specified circumstances. One of the requirements for the exemption is that the newspaper or periodical be “regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months.”

INITIAL DISCUSSION PAPER

Regulation 1590, Newspapers and Periodicals

While Regulation 1590, subdivision (b)(5)(A), pertaining to 501(c)(3) organizations includes clarification that the newspaper and periodical must be “regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months,” subdivision (b)(5)(B) pertaining to other nonprofit organizations does not. To ensure consistency with the statute, staff proposes to amend Regulation 1590 subdivision (b)(5)(B) to specify that the exemption with respect to other nonprofit organizations only applies to those newspapers and periodicals that are “regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months.” Staff further proposes to clarify this “interval requirement” in the related exemption certificates (Certificate C and D).

Effective Dates and Obsolete Guidance

In order to increase the readability and relevance of the guidance in Regulation 1590, staff proposes amendments throughout the regulation to eliminate the effective dates that are no longer relevant and any guidance that has become obsolete due to the passage of time. This includes deleting section 6362.3 from the regulation’s reference section as it relates to guidance in Regulation 1590(b)(3) with respect to subscriptions prepaid prior to July 15, 1991.

Summary

Staff welcomes any comments, suggestions, and input from interested parties on this issue. Staff invites interested parties to participate in the August 5, 2015 interested parties meeting. The deadline for interested parties to provide written responses regarding this discussion paper is August 17, 2015.

(a) Definitions.

(1) "Newspaper." The term "newspaper" as used herein conforms to the definition of a newspaper as set forth in a ruling of the United States Treasury Department published in the Federal Register, December 29, 1960. Under this definition, the term is limited to those publications which are commonly understood to be newspapers and which are printed and distributed periodically at daily, weekly, or other short intervals for the dissemination of news of a general character and of a general interest. The term does not include handbills, circulars, flyers, or the like, unless distributed as a part of a publication which constitutes a newspaper within the meaning of this subparagraph. Neither does the term include any publication which is issued to supply information on certain subjects of interest to particular groups, unless such publication otherwise qualifies as a newspaper within the meaning of this subparagraph. For purposes of this subparagraph, advertising is not considered to be news of a general character and of a general interest.

(2) "Periodical." The term "periodical" as used herein is limited to those publications which appear at stated intervals, each issue of which contains news or information of general interest to the public, or to some particular organization or group of persons. Each issue must bear a relationship to prior or subsequent issues in respect to continuity of literary character or similarity of subject matter, and there must be some connection between the different issues of the series in the nature of the articles appearing in them.* Each issue must be sufficiently similar in style and format to make it evident that it is one of a series. An annual report of a corporation which is substantially different in style and format from the corporation's quarterly reports is not part of a series with the quarterly reports. The term "periodical" does not include books complete in themselves, even those that are issued at stated intervals, for example, books sold by the Book-of-the-Month Club or similar organizations; so-called "pocket books," a new one of which may be issued once a month or some other interval; or so-called "one-shot" magazines that have no literary or subject matter connection or continuity between prior or subsequent issues. The term does not include catalogs, programs, score-cards, handbills, price lists, order forms or maps. Neither does it include shopping guides or other publications of which the advertising portion, including product publicity, exceeds 90 percent of the printed area of the entire issue in more than one-half of the issues during any 12-month period.

(3) "Ingredient or Component Part of a Newspaper or Periodical." The term "ingredient or component part of a newspaper or periodical" includes only those items that become physically incorporated into the publication and not those which are merely consumed or used in the production of the publication. For example, newsprint and ink are ingredients of a newspaper; however, a photograph does not become an ingredient or component part of a newspaper or periodical merely because the image of the photograph is reproduced in the publication.

Handbills, circulars, flyers, order forms, reply envelopes, maps or the like are considered as component parts of a newspaper or periodical when attached to or inserted in and distributed with the newspaper or periodical.

(4) "Publisher." "Publisher" means and includes any person who owns the rights to produce, market, and distribute printed literature and information.

(5) "Distributor." "Distributor" means any person who acquires newspapers or periodicals for subsequent distribution to retailers or newspaper carriers.

(6) "Newspaper Carrier." "Newspaper carrier" means any person who acquires newspapers from a publisher or distributor to deliver to consumers. The term includes a hawker. A "hawker" is an individual who sells single copies of newspapers to passersby on a street corner or other trafficked area. "Newspaper carrier" does not include persons selling newspapers or periodicals from a fixed place of business.

(7) "Third Party Retailer." "Third party retailer" means and includes any person who sells at retail subscriptions to newspapers and periodicals who is not the publisher of the newspapers or periodicals. Typically, third party retailers solicit subscriptions in a single offering for a large number of different publications, require that payment be made to the account of the third party retailer, and undertake to resolve subscription problems. The term includes persons commonly known as direct mail, school, paid during service, cash, catalog, and telephone agents. "Third party retailer" does not include persons who solicit renewals of subscriptions on behalf of individual publishers.

(8) "Mixed Newspaper Subscription." "Mixed newspaper subscription" means and includes a subscription for a tangible newspaper combined with a subscription for the right to access digital content

(b) Application of Tax.

(1) In General. ~~Effective July 15, 1991,~~ ~~†~~The sale of newspapers and periodicals, including sales by third party retailers, is subject to tax unless otherwise exempt.

Tax does not apply to sales of tangible personal property to persons who purchase the property for incorporation as a component part of a newspaper or periodical which will be sold notwithstanding that the purchaser is not the seller of the newspaper or periodical.

See Regulation 1574 (18 CCR 1574) for the application of tax to sales through vending machines and Regulation 1628 (18 CCR 1628) for the application of tax to transportation charges.

(2) Distributions of Newspapers and Periodicals Without Charge. ~~Effective October 2, 1991,~~ ~~†~~Tax does not apply to the sale or use of tangible personal property which becomes an ingredient or component part of a copy of a newspaper or periodical regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months when that copy of such newspaper or periodical is distributed without charge, nor does tax apply to such distribution.

Newspapers and periodicals distributed on a voluntary pay basis shall be considered as distributed without charge. Newspapers and periodicals are distributed on a voluntary pay basis when payment is requested from the consumer but is not required.

~~(3) Subscriptions. The sale or use of newspapers and periodicals is exempt from tax during the term of a prepaid subscription if the purchaser ordered and paid for the subscription prior to July 15, 1991.~~

~~Effective November 1, 1992, t~~

(A) Exempt Subscriptions. Tax does not apply to the sale or use of a periodical, including a newspaper, which appears at least four, but not more than 60 times each year, which is sold by subscription, and which is delivered by mail or common carrier. For example, a daily newspaper is not a periodical for the purposes of this subdivision (b)(3). Tax does not apply to the sale or use of tangible personal property which becomes an ingredient or component part of such a periodical.

~~Sales tax reimbursement collected on the sale of a periodical subscription prior to the November 1, 1992 effective date of the exemption for the sale of issues delivered on or after November 1, 1992 constitutes excess tax reimbursement. The retailer must refund the tax reimbursement to the customer or pay it to the state in accordance with subdivision (b) of Regulation 1700 (18 CCR 1700).~~

(B) Mixed Newspaper Subscriptions. In the sale of a mixed newspaper subscription, tax is applied to the tangible personal property portion of the transaction (unless otherwise exempt) and the right to access the digital content is not subject to tax.

For sales of mixed newspaper subscriptions made on and after October 1, 2016, sixty-two (62) percent of the charge for the mixed newspaper subscription is regarded as the taxable measure from the sale of tangible personal property and tax applies to that amount; the remaining thirty-eight (38) percent is regarded as the nontaxable sale of the right to access the digital content.

(C) Reporting Subscription Sales. Each delivery of a newspaper or periodical pursuant to a subscription sale is a separate sale transaction. When the sale is subject to tax, the retailer must report and pay the tax based upon the reporting period within which the delivery is made. The subscription price shall be prorated over the term of the subscription period.

(4) Membership Organizations. Generally, tax applies to sales of newspapers and periodicals by membership organizations. If the price is separately stated, tax applies to that amount. If the price is not separately stated, the measure of tax is the fair retail selling price of the publication.

The application of tax to distributions of newspapers and periodicals by nonprofit organizations is provided at subdivision (b)(5). The application of tax to sales of periodicals by subscription is provided at subdivision (b)(3).

(5) Nonprofit Organizations.

(A) Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3) Organizations. ~~Effective November 1, 1991, until October 31, 1992, tax~~ does not apply to the sale or use of any newspaper or periodical distributed by an organization that qualifies for tax exempt status under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, nor tangible personal property which becomes an ingredient or component part of any such newspaper or periodical, regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months ~~only as to issues~~ and distributed under either of the following circumstances:

1. The issues are distributed to the organization's members in consideration of the organization's membership fee; or
2. The issues are of a newspaper or periodical which neither receives revenue from, nor accepts, any commercial advertising.

~~Effective November 1, 1992, the exemption is applicable only as to a newspaper or periodical regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months.~~

For purposes of this subdivision, any governmental entity established and administered for the purposes provided in Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3) shall be considered to be an organization that qualifies for tax exempt status under that section.

(B) Other Nonprofit Organizations. ~~Effective November 1, 1991, tax~~ does not apply to the sale or use of any newspaper or periodical regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months and distributed by a nonprofit organization, nor tangible personal property that becomes an ingredient or component part of or any such newspaper or periodical, only as to issues distributed pursuant to both of the following requirements:

1. The issues are distributed to the organization's members in consideration, in whole, or in part, of the organization's membership fee;
2. The amount paid or incurred by the nonprofit organization for the cost of printing the newspaper or periodical is less than ten percent of the membership fee attributable to the period for which the newspaper or periodical is distributed, whether the publication is printed within or without this state. The cost of printing shall be determined as follows.

The cost of printing includes costs of tangible personal property purchased to become an ingredient or component part of the newspaper or periodical (e.g., ink and paper) and costs of labor to print the newspaper or periodical. The cost of printing does not include costs not attributable to actual printing, such as costs of special printing aids, typography, and preparation of layouts.

If the organization contracts with an outside printer to print the newspaper or periodical, the organization shall obtain and retain documentation segregating the costs of printing from the printer's other charges.

If the organization is the printer of the newspaper or periodical, the cost of printing includes the aggregate of the cost of tangible personal property purchased to become an ingredient or component part of the newspaper or periodical; labor of printing, including fringe benefits and payroll taxes; and other costs attributable to the actual printing of the newspaper or periodical.

If an organization has published the newspaper or periodical for a period exceeding twelve months and the method of printing has not changed, the organization may elect to consider the cost of printing for a reporting period to be equal to the amount paid or incurred for the same reporting period for the previous fiscal or calendar year.

(6) Newspaper Carriers. A newspaper carrier is not a retailer. The publisher or distributor for whom the carrier delivers is the retailer of the newspapers delivered. The publisher or distributor shall report and pay tax measured by the price charged to the customer by the carrier.

(7) Consumption of Property. Tax applies to the sale to or use by a newspaper or periodical publisher of tangible personal property consumed in the manufacturing process. Tax does not apply to the cost of tangible personal property lost or wasted in the manufacturing process when that property was purchased for the purpose of incorporation into a newspaper or periodical to be sold or to be distributed in accordance with subdivision (b)(2).

~~(8) Fixed Price Contracts. The sale or use of newspapers and periodicals is exempt from tax during the term of a prepaid subscription if the purchaser ordered and paid for the subscription prior to July 15, 1991.~~

(98) School Catalogs and Yearbooks. Public or private schools, county offices of education, school districts, or student organizations are the consumers of catalogs and yearbooks prepared for or by them, and tax does not apply to their receipts from the distribution of the publications to students.

Tax applies to charges for the preparation of such publications made to public or private schools, county offices of education, school districts, or student organizations by printers, engravers, photographers and the like.

(c) Exemption Certificates. Any seller claiming a transaction as exempt from sales tax pursuant to Revenue and Taxation Code sections 6362.7 or 6362.8 should timely obtain an exemption certificate in writing from the purchaser. The exemption certificate will be considered timely if obtained by the seller at any time before the seller bills the purchaser for the property, or any time within the seller's normal billing and payment cycle, or any time at or prior to delivery of the property.

(1) Certificate A. Certificate to be used for purchases of tangible personal property for incorporation into newspapers or periodicals for sale in accordance with subdivisions (b)(1) or (b)(3), above.

(2) Certificate B. Certificate to be used for purchases of tangible personal property that becomes an ingredient or component part of newspapers or periodicals that are distributed without charge in accordance with subdivision (b)(2), above.

(3) Certificate C. Certificate to be used for purchases of tangible personal property that becomes an ingredient or component part of newspapers or periodicals that are distributed by organizations which qualify for tax-exempt status under Internal Revenue Code section 501(c)(3) in accordance with subdivision (b)(5)(A), above.

(4) Certificate D. Certificate to be used for purchases of tangible personal property that becomes an ingredient or component part of newspapers or periodicals that are distributed by nonprofit organizations in accordance with subdivision (b)(5)(B), above.
